Overview of the Exam and Review Process

Exam date: Friday morning, May 5, 2006

1. Review your notes and essays (regular and DBQs). Start with the Colonial era and work your way forward chronologically by period. A list of major periods is attached. For each:

   a. Look up facts, people, terms, concepts you don't know in your review book. Use the Unit Assignment sheets as a guide.

   b. Try to characterize each period in your own words by summarizing it in a few phrases, AND naming several main events and trends.

   c. Pick up a few dates to "hang" the rest of the period on.

2. Commit to memory conflicting interpretations of major issues in each period. (We've written essays on some of these issues.)

3. Draft an essay outline for each period paying particular attention to developing a thesis statement and outlining your support. Again, use the focus questions on the Unit Assignment sheets as "essay" questions. Review your notes to see how you might improve your response. Before the AP test, practice writing a few essays out in full without your notes. (Use the essay questions in your review books.)

4. Practice a couple of timed essays. Allow yourself 30 minutes only, outline and write out your response in full. Practice some multiple choice questions too. Remember, however, that actual study is more important.

5. Get together with others and go through a similar process.

6. Get enough sleep before the exam. If you've been cramming for nights, you won't be able to analyze and write clearly.

7. On the day of the exam: bring two #2 pencils, two dark blue or black ink pens, and a watch that doesn't beep. Pace yourself.
Test format:

Section I (50%): 80 multiple choice questions, 55 minutes

The multiple choice questions are chronologically ordered within clusters of 8 to 10 questions each. There is a 1/4 point penalty for wrong answers. You may skip some questions, gaining no points and incurring no penalty, but if you skip too many, you'll wind up with a low score. Each successive cluster will become somewhat more difficult, so guessing will probably pay off earlier, rather than later in the exam. Likewise, skip questions in the last few clusters.

Section II (50%):
- One DBQ (no choice)
- Two (of four) free response essays (one from first half, one from second half of U.S. history.
- Total time: 130 minutes.

- Reading period, 15 minutes (No essay writing permitted. Use this to read and evaluate the DBQ question & documents, and take brief notes).

  Suggested use of remaining time:

- Writing period, 1 hour and 55 minutes.

  45 minutes to write your DBQ response.

  5 minutes to choose and analyze 1st essay
  30 minutes to write 1st essay

  5 minutes to choose and analyze 2nd essay
  30 minutes to write 2nd essay

Note: The review materials below have been compiled over the years. They consist of summaries: incomplete in themselves, but a decent overview. Use these to view the (now famous) "Big Picture" to which I always refer. You still need to connect the dots with facts and details (i.e. study other materials). Work hard, but don’t lose sleep. The best of luck to all you!

Agriculture:

Homestead Act, 1862: 160 acres free if resident for 5 years

Agricultural Adjustment Acts, 1933, 1938. Farmers paid not to grow crops as price supports. These have only recently been curtailed in the 1990s.
Business/Labor:

Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) 1886. Regulates railroads

Sherman Antitrust Act, 1890: Forbids all combinations in restraint of trade

Clayton Antitrust Act, 1914: Forbids interlocking directorates holding companies, tie-in contract. Prohibits use of antitrust laws against unions

Federal Reserve System ("the Fed"), 1916: establishes a national bank for banks, to regulate the money supply by setting reserve, discount rate, and open market sale or purchase of government bonds. Run by regional boards. Currently chaired by Alan Greenspan.

Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), 1934: regulates stock exchanges (e.g. buying on margin) and monitors trading for unfair manipulation of stock exchanges.

National Industrial Recovery Act 1933: Codes of business that set wages, hours and prices.

National Labor Relations Act, 1933 Guarantees the right to organize and bargain collectively, forbids blacklists

Taft Hartley Act 1947 Forbids closed shop, permits states to bar union shop, allow temporary injunctions of strikes affecting national welfare.

Taylor Act, 1967, forbids strikes in New York State of public employees (police, firefighters, teachers, etc.). Severe fines for violations. Many other states have similar laws.

Immigration:

1882 Chinese Exclusion Act Suspended immigration of all Chinese.

Another law prohibited immigration of criminals, paupers, and "mentally defective" persons.

1891 By this year the federal government had established full control of immigration.

Regulations now forbid the immigration of:

- "persons suffering from a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease."
- It also included earlier provisions which kept out criminals, prostitutes, paupers, and "mentally defective" persons.
- It required that an immigrant prove to officials that he or she would not become a burden on society.

1892 Ellis Island opens in New York City as a federal immigration inspection station 1894  Immigration Restriction League formed. Between 1896 and 1915, this group waged a half dozen attempts to pass a literacy requirement for entry to the U.S.

1901  Congress bars anarchists from entry, after President McKinley is assassinated by a man professing to be an anarchist.

1908  Gentlemen's Agreement  President Theodore Roosevelt made a deal in which Japan agreed to deny passports to its laborers who wished to come to the United States.

1917  Literacy Test is finally enacted. Every immigrant aged 16 or older must be able to read. It keeps out very few immigrants.

1921  Emergency Quota Act set temporary quotas which favored northern and western Europeans. Maximum annual total set at 358,000. It offered no entry to Africans or Asians.

1924  National Origins Act reduces the annual total to 164,000. It also drastically reduced the number of southern and eastern Europeans allowed entry. Italy's quota, for example, was reduced from 42,000 to 4,000 persons.

1929  Total limited to 150,000 annually, with specific quotas for each country; these were based on the number of people from each country living in the U.S. in 1920

1930s  Refugees from the Nazis are barred entry to the U.S. Despite the fact that these people sought to escape persecution or even death, the quota system kept most of the refugees principally Jewish from coming to the U.S.

1952  The McCarran-Walter Act retained the quota system and slightly amended existing laws. On the one hand, it permitted Asians living in the U.S. to become citizens and allowed 2,000 Asians to enter the country each year. Allowed the government to deport aliens considered subversive. (Truman Administration).

1965  The Immigration and Nationality Act eliminated the quota system. It kept a limit on the annual total, but allowed anyone to enter on a first come, first served basis. For the first time, anyone from southern Europe, Africa, or Asia received the same consideration as someone from France or Germany. Gives preference to professionals and skilled workers, and those related to U.S. citizens. (LBJ Administration)
1979  New laws allowed an additional 50,000 refugees to be accepted annually, although the president was granted the power to admit more refugees as the need arose. A refugee is anyone escaping persecution or having a well-founded fear of persecution. (Carter Administration)

1986  Immigration Reform and Control Act imposes fines against employers who hire illegal aliens. Employers must now check documents which prove citizenship. It has not slowed the entry of illegal immigrants from Latin America via the Mexican border. (Reagan Administration)

African Americans

1865  13th Amendment ratified, abolishing slavery

1866  Civil Rights Act grants citizenship to the freedmen, but is overturned in court.

1868  14th Amendment ratified, granting equal citizenship and rights under the law, regardless of race or color

1870  15th Amendment ratified, grants the right to vote to all, regardless of race or color

1876  The contested presidential election of 1876 results in a deal in which Union troops are removed from the South, thus ending Reconstruction; enforcement of the "Civil War Amendments" comes to an end. By 1890 in the South, de jure segregation is legally-enforced in schools, hotels, buses, trains, train stations, restrooms, restaurants, water fountains. Virtually every public and private facility — is segregated. In the North, de facto segregation (segregation in fact) means that in practice, blacks are not hired, sold houses, or admitted entrance to many private institutions and clubs.

1896  Plessy v. Ferguson ruled that "separate, but equal" facilities do not violate the 14th Amendment; segregation is therefore considered constitutional.

1912  The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) is formed by W.E.B. DuBois and a group of white and black citizens to fight for the political equality of all races.

1917  "The Great Migration" begins, which continues through the 1960s, originally a response to demands for additional labor during wartime. The north begins to experience de facto racial segregation, race riots.
1920s Marcus Garvey founds the Universal Negro Improvement Association, and its Black Star shipping line. Garvey promotes pride in African heritage, and black nationalism: a very different approach to black civil rights in America.

1933 FDR establishes a group of African-American advisors, known as the "black cabinet." New Deal programs provide jobs and assistance to blacks as well as whites.

1941 A. Phillip Randolph leads the March on Washington Movement, urging equal opportunity legislation in federally-contracted defense industries. Executive Order 8802.

1948 President Truman orders the desegregation of the Armed Forces, against his generals' wishes.

1954 Brown v. Board of Education: "separate is inherently unequal."
Emmet Till tortured and killed in Mississippi, creating nationwide shock at white Southern hostility and violence upon blacks.

1955- Rosa Parks, NAACP; Montgomery Bus boycott, Martin Luther King, Jr.
1956 Montgomery Bus Boycott a success; city bus system desegregated: African-American bus drivers hired. The Supreme Court rules segregation in public transportation is unconstitutional.

1956-57, Little Rock Nine at Little Rock Central High. President Eisenhower sends U.S. Army to desegregate Little Rock, Arkansas's Central High School; the "Little Rock Nine" are allowed to attend. Congress passes the weak Civil Rights Act of 1957, but it has little impact on voting rights.

1960 Lunch Counter Sit-ins, Nashville TN. Led by college students in the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC, pronounced "snick"). Adults turned to boycott Nashville stores for employment. Achieved integration in the city.

  Congress passes a weak Civil Rights Act of 1960; again, little impact 1960-61, 100 other cities held sit-ins. 50,000 Americans participated. 3,600 arrested.

1961 Freedom Rides, Congress Of Racial Equality(CORE) led an integrated civil disobedience bus tour through the South, led to violence, firebombs, beatings, all nationally televised. Led to federal intervention by JFK and RFK as attorney general.

June: Medgar Evers, NAACP officer, shot to death in Mississippi by unknown gunman

August: March on Washington, more than 200,000 blacks and whites demonstrate, King gives "I have a dream" speech.

1964  Freedom Summer Massive voter registration drive in Mississippi, organized and staffed by white and black college students, many from the North. Three civil rights workers, two white and from the north are murdered by the KKK.

Civil Rights Act of 1964. These murders stir awareness and condemnation by much of the nation, including President Johnson, and leads directly to his successful initiation and push for the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which Congress passes. The Act outlaws job discrimination, and all forms of segregation.

24th Amendment does away with poll taxes; "war on poverty" declared by President Johnson's "Great Society" Program launched. LBJ declares a "war on poverty." Economic Opportunity Act, Medicare/Medicaid, school aid, HUD,

1965  Voting Rights Act eliminates literacy tests

Robert C. Weaver, first black appointed to the Cabinet
Malcolm X assassinated

1967  Riots in many U.S. cities. 43 dead in Detroit's riot. National Guard troops called in to help. Affirmative Action programs established, requiring businesses and colleges receiving federal funding to increase job opportunities and admissions for women and minorities.

1968  April 4, Martin Luther King, Jr. assassinated in Nashville, Tennessee. Riots again erupt around the country.

1978  Regents of the University of California v. Bakke ruled that the school's affirmative action "quota system" was unconstitutional and that Bakke, a white applicant, should be admitted. However, it also ruled that race could be one factor in determining admission to a college.
2003  Affirmative action case is heard by the Supreme Court to determine whether University of Michigan affirmative action policies, which consider race as one of many factors, but don't use a quota, is constitutional (see Bakke case above).

Major Figures in the Struggle for African-American Civil Rights

Booker T. Washington - turn of century; accommodate to present conditions, don't insist on social equality or pushing for political rights, emphasis on economic self sufficiency, vocational education, dignity, and self respect. Founder of the Tuskegee Institute.

W.E.B. DuBois - Early 1900s; historian and activist; founder of the NAACP, circa 1909.
Protest all inequalities, bring law suits for rights, educate the "talented tenth" for the professions as a vanguard; integrate. Wrote first revisionist history of reconstruction.

Ida B. Wells(-Barnett) - Progressive era activist from the south; school teacher at age 16, journalist and anti-lynching Progressive-era activist. Her work for women's suffrage was rebuffed by many white woman suffragettes. Wells was fiercely determined and remained active despite death threats.

Marcus Garvey - 1920s; colorful founder of the United Negro Improvement Association; black pride; promote black businesses; solidarity with blacks world wide; back to Africa; steamship company for repatriation goes bankrupt. Scandal led to conviction for mail fraud, exile.

A. Phillip Randolph - Organizer of Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. Organized and canceled a March on Washington in 1944 to protest discrimination in the defense industry.
Gained Executive Order 8802 from FDR which fulfilled this demands. Led the 1963 March with King.

named as Supreme Court Justice (1st black ever) by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. - Southern Christian Leadership Conference founder, boycotts, sit-ins, protests, marches, law suits; non violent direct action, his very effective strategy, to raise consciousness, press for laws to dismantle Jim Crow laws and establish voting rights; his vision: a fully integrated society.
Malcolm X - 1950s, early 1960s leader of Black Muslims, contempt for white society, black nationalist, separatist, unity with blacks worldwide, discipline and self respect, full civil rights for blacks. Led rallies, international protests. Rejected nonviolence and assimilation, but altered views upon return from Mecca.

Stokely Carmichael - arises from SNCC. Originates slogan of "black power," intimidation, black pride, full rights and control of black communities: Black Panthers, Angela Davis, e.g.

Jessie Jackson - ran for President in 1984 with the Rainbow Coalition, emphasis on solving poverty problems, lower military budget with money diverted to domestic problems, affirmative action, increase black voter participation.

Louis Farrakhan - leader of the Nation of Islam, black nationalist, separatist. Known for derogatory statements against whites, particularly Jews. Lately has nudged himself a bit toward center with the "Million Man March" which brought together a more diverse, but solely black and male, leadership and following, and called for black male responsibility.

Al Sharpton - Formerly: raise consciousness of racism with marches, and protests, distrust of legal system. Presently shifting to electoral politics. Ran for U.S. Senator from NY in 1990’s, and presidential candidate in 2004.

Clarence Thomas - career at first outside civil rights community, opposes affirmative action and special programs for minorities, just enforce present laws, hard work and self discipline, avoid self pity and self image of underdog. Now a Reagan appointee on the Supreme Court.

J.C. Watts - Republican House representative from Oklahoma, Watts opposes affirmative action and supports other conservative social and political views. He supports conservative actions to help the poor, but not blacks specifically, such as the Commercial Revitalization Tax Act (1998).

Women

1848 First national women’s suffrage convention meets in Seneca Falls, NY. Attendees include Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony, and Frederick Douglass. Issued the "Declaration of Rights and Sentiments" which called for political equality, specifically property and voting rights for women.

1869-1896 Four new Western states are the first to grant women suffrage (WY, ID, UT, CO)

1910-1912 Five additional Western states follow suit

1920 President Wilson finally endorses suffrage, in part for women's crucial role during the war. The 19th Amendment gives women suffrage, but it has little impact on reform politics.

1921 Sheppard-Towner Maternity Act.
Stimulated by high maternity and infant mortality rates.
Provided states with funds for maternal education and public health nurses.
First federal welfare funding in U.S. history.
Ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court in 1929.

1928 First Congressional hearing on the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA)
"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the U.S. or by any state on account of sex."

1963 The Feminine Mystique by Betty Friedan, challenged the notion that women were the "weaker sex." Advocated that women be admitted to the professions and high-level business positions. The opening salvo of the modern women's rights movement.

1964 Civil Rights Act forbids gender discrimination in employment.

1966 National Organization for Women (NOW) is formed by Betty Friedan and other feminists to increase awareness of discrimination against and domination over women by men, as well as to pass antidiscrimination legislation and push for equal pay and day-care centers.

1972 Congress passes ERA and sends it out to the states for possible ratification. Three quarters or 38 states needed to ratify. (See 1928 above, and 1982 below.)

Higher Education Act forbids discrimination in admission to colleges and universities. One section, Title IX, states that "No person in the U.S. shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance. Public schools and colleges greatly increased funding of women’s sports programs as a result.

1973  Roe v. Wade, extremely controversial, ruled that laws prohibiting abortion in the first six months of pregnancy are unconstitutional because the first amendment implies a right to privacy, which in this matter applies to a woman’s choices regarding her own body. This ruling has been narrowed in recent years by further Supreme Court challenges.

1981  The U.S. Supreme Court rules that excluding women from the draft is constitutional.

Kirchberg v. Feenstra, overturns state laws designating a husband “head and master” with unilateral control of property owned jointly with his wife.

1982  Deadline for state ratification; ERA falls short of 38 states by 3.

1984  In Roberts v. U.S. Jaycees, sex discrimination in membership policies of organizations, such as the Jaycees, is forbidden by the Supreme Court, opening many previously all-male organizations (Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions) to women.

The state of Mississippi belatedly ratifies the 19th Amendment, granting women the vote.

1986  In Meritor Savings Bank v. Vinson, 477 U.S. 57 (1986), the U.S. Supreme Court held that a hostile or abusive work environment can prove discrimination based on sex.

1987  Johnson v. Santa Clara County: The U.S. Supreme Court rules that it is permissible to take sex and race into account in employment decisions even where there is no proven history of discrimination but when evidence of a manifest imbalance exists in the number of women or minorities holding the position in question.

1989  In Webster v. Reproductive Health Services, 492 U.S. 490 (1989), the Supreme Court affirms the right of states to deny public funding for abortions and to prohibit public hospitals from performing abortions.

1994  Gender Equity in Education Act: trains teachers in gender equity, promotes math and science learning by girls, counsels pregnant teens.
The Violence Against Women Act funds services for victims of rape and domestic violence, allows women to seek civil rights remedies for gender-related crimes, provides training to increase police and court officials' sensitivity and a national 24-hour hotline for battered women.

1996  United States v. Virginia, affirms that the male-only admissions policy of the state-supported Virginia Military Institute violates the Fourteenth Amendment.

1997  Elaborating on Title IX, the Supreme Court rules that college athletics programs must actively involve roughly equal numbers of men and women to qualify for federal support.

1998  Mitsubishi Motor Manufacturing of America agrees to pay $34 million to settle an E.E.O.C. lawsuit contending that hundreds of women were sexually harassed.

Burlington Industries, Inc. v. Ellerth: The Supreme Court rules that employers are liable for sexual harassment even in instances when a supervisor’s threats are not carried out, but not when the employer took steps to prevent or promptly correct any sexually harassing behavior and/or when the employee did not take advantage of available opportunities to stop the behavior.

2000  CBS Broadcasting agrees to pay $8 million to settle a sex discrimination lawsuit by the E.E.O.C. on behalf of 200 women.

United States v. Morrison: The U.S. Supreme Court invalidates those portions of the Violence Against Women Act permitting victims of rape, domestic violence, etc. to sue their attackers in federal court.

Native Americans

1763  Proclamation Line of 1763 by British government to protect Indians.

1828  Cherokee Nation v. Georgia: In 1828 the Cherokee, a "civilized" tribe who had lived in peace working as farmers, building houses and roads found gold on their land. As a result white settlers moved in and the State of Georgia claimed jurisdiction over the Cherokee. The Cherokee sued claiming they were independent from Georgia. The Supreme Court ruled in favor of the Cherokee. The victory was short lived, however, as President Andrew Jackson refused to enforce the Court's decision.

1830  Indian Removal Act pushes the Five Civilized Tribes west of the Mississippi River.
1838  Trail of Tears: Forced removal of the Cherokee west of Mississippi.

1850-60  California's Indian population: from 100,000 to 35,000

1851  Fort Laramie Treaty grants Indians their territory forever; Indians, in turn, guarantee safe passage of Oregon Trail travelers.

1860s  First Sioux War. Transcontinental railroad construction and westward movement of Americans begin widespread encroachment on Plains Indian lands.

1864  Sand Creek Massacre: 300 peaceful Indian men, women & children attacked and slaughtered by U.S. Army under Colonel Chivington.

1867  Reservation policy established for the Black Hills & Oklahoma.

1870-1880s  Second Sioux War, Nez Percé, Apache Indian Wars with U.S.

1871  End of treaty-making by U.S.; Indians subject to U.S. policy.

1876  Custer’s Last Stand: 264 soldiers killed by 2,500 Sioux & Cheyenne at Little Bighorn River, Montana.

1877  The Sioux surrender; Crazy Horse killed. The Nez Percé captured at Canadian border after 1,700 mile flight under Chief Joseph.

1885  Of an original 60 million, only 1,000 buffalo remain in the U.S.

1886  Apache’s Geronimo surrenders.

1887  Dawes Act breaks up remaining tribal lands; enforces "Americanization" policy of settlement on reservations.

1890  Wounded Knee, South Dakota massacre of Native Americans.

1924  Congress passes a law granting Indians full citizenship who hadn't already received it.

1932  President Hoover reorganizes the Bureau of Indian Affairs; increases its budget.
1934  Wheeler-Howard Act: Ended land allotments, restored unsold surplus lands to tribal ownership, authorized tribes to form councils with significant powers over their people. FDR’s “New Deal” for Indians.

1953  Eisenhower’s “Termination” policy established to assimilate Native Americans. A dramatic revision of federal policy that ended the Bureau of Indian Affairs and all of its programs (later reestablished). It divided tribal property among its members. Limited tribal self government and relocated many Indians to the cities where jobs were available. The Termination policy also ended federal responsibility and social services (health, education, and welfare).

1973  Sit-in at D.C. Bureau of Indian Affairs to protest conditions. Indian rights movement gathers momentum, especially in organizations such as the American Indian Movement (AIM).

1974  Oglala civil war, Wounded Knee, S.D. siege by F.B.I. agents

1980s-present  Native American tribes granted exceptions to state anti-gambling laws in New York, Connecticut, and other states, opening casinos on reservations. Native American and other human remains in American museums are returned to tribes for burial.

Politics/Government:

Pendleton Act: Created the Civil Service exams whereby you get a government job by taking an exam instead of by favor.

Federal Campaign Reform Act of 1974. Following Watergate, matching funds to Presidential candidates up to maximum of $5 million in primary, and $20 million in the election, limits spending by Senate and House candidates, and limits contribution by individuals and political organizations.

War Powers Act, 1974: The President can send troops into combat must inform congress within 48 hours. Congress may then order the troops home if it wishes. Hostilities must terminate within 90 days unless Congress gives explicit permission for them to continue.

Economic History

Hamilton's Financial Plans, 1790s
- Federal payment of state and national debts incurred during revolution
- Creation of a national bank (Bank of the United States)
- Institute tariffs to protect American industries from foreign competition

Differing economies in North, South & West caused sectionalism and political conflict, 1800-60

North: Industry and trade were dominant due to poor soil, excellent seaports, great rivers for transport and for factory waterpower, Roads and canals were built with state money to expand this capability.

West: (Old Northwest: Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio) Agriculture dominated due to excellent farmlands here also, but primarily in grains due to colder climate, shorter growing season. Slavery is uneconomical, so it essentially didn't exist here. The West eventually aligns with the North.

South: Agriculture dominated due to excellent farmlands, rivers best for transport only (not waterpower), Invention of cotton gin leads to cotton's dominance of economy, growth of slave trade and use, and desire for westward expansion (especially to Texas). The slave issue becomes divisive and leads to sectionalism as abolition becomes a political movement. The tariff issue also leads to sectionalism. The 1828 Tariff of Abominations leads to John Calhoun of SC to write his Nullification Doctrine, a theory that states may nullify laws which it determines to be unconstitutional. This, in turn, leads to the belief that states may secede (leave) the Union, which eventually leads to Civil War.

Industrialism (1865-1920)

During and after the Civil War (1861-65), northern industries grew enormously. The corporation, a legal entity, and the issuing of stocks, led to nationwide businesses with enormous factories. This also led to the concentration of wealth in a very few hands, which led, in turn, to political corruption by the "robber baron" business leaders.

Government maintained a laissez-faire policy: government would not interfere with the economy, even in the event of a depression. Hypocritically, however, the federal government did send in the U.S. army to break workers' strikes.
Progressive Era: Government moved away from laissez faire with Theodore Roosevelt’s Square Deal policy of mediating disputes between workers and management, and trustbusting.

The Welfare State

New Deal: Franklin Roosevelt’s policy of mild pro-unionism, and intervention in economy toward relief, recovery, and moderate reforms.

The Great Society: Lyndon Johnson’s program to wage the “War on Poverty” in the 1960s. Established Medicaid (health care coverage for the poor), federal education subsidies (Headstart e.g.), jobs programs (VISTA, e.g.). Never fully funded due to the massive cost of the Vietnam War.

Supply-side economics (Reaganomics): Cut corporate and individual taxes, cut social spending by government in order to encourage private investment leading to economic growth, and eliminate some federal business regulations to increase profits.

This top-down approach to economic intervention, meant to create growth, was sometimes referred to as “trickle-down economics” because it was asserted that additional wealth in corporations and the upper class would trickle down to the lower classes.

NAFTA: North American Free Trade Agreement, 1994: tariffs removed amongst Canada, United States and Mexico to stimulate greater trade and economic growth; critics believe it is resulting in fewer American exports and jobs in the United States. (Bush, Clinton)

GATT: General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, 1994: like NAFTA, this economic agreement seeks to encourage free trade by reducing tariffs and other trade restrictions. It is enforced by the World Trade Organization (WTO). (Clinton)

Both of the two agreements above concern the overriding issue of “globalization” of the world’s economy.
Major Political Parties

Federalists: Pro England, manufacturing, strong national government, army, BUS, limited free speech. Hamilton, Adams

Jeffersonian (Democratic)

Republicans: Pro French, farmers, strong state governments, low taxes, individual rights, small army, small national government anti national internal improvements, anti manufacturing. Jefferson, Madison, Monroe Parties fall apart as Republicans become more like the Federalists when in office, and Federalists are tainted by the Hartford Convention.

Whigs: assumed to be the party of the wealthy, Clay’s American plan (tariff, internal improvements, and BUS), city oriented, nationalist, established business, anti Jackson. Clay, Webster, Tyler

Democrats: assumed to be the party of the common man, anti high tariff, expansionist, anti BUS inheritors of Jefferson’s concern for farmer, rising businessmen, Jackson, Van Buren, Calhoun, Polk.

Parties fall apart during the 1850s when they can’t deep their southern and northern wings together.

Republicans: Pro northern business, high tariff, Homestead Act, help to R.R., hold union together, free the slaves, hard money, pro imperialism. Lincoln, Grant, McKinley, T. Roosevelt. There are conservative and progressive-reform wings.
Evolution of U.S. Political Parties

The founders did not foresee nor did they approve of the emergence of political parties. Political parties would formalize those factions and yield concentrated power, corruption, and tyranny. Nevertheless, during the Federalist period, 1789-1800, political parties did coalesce around opposing leaders Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson.

The chart below shows the development of the three different two-party systems. Note that while the "two-party system" existed for most of our history, the names and major positions of these parties changed over time. Roman numerals following election years indicate the emergence of each of the four two-party systems. Some of the more significant minor parties are also included here.

1 A true two-party system was now firmly established.
2 The Socialist Party lost a more radical wing, which itself split into two Communist Parties, shown here as one party for simplicity.

3 The States' Rights Party, also known as the Dixiecrats, was a revolt from the Democratic Party, due to Truman's support for African American civil rights. Led by then SC governor Strom Thurmond.

4 H. Ross Perot, Texas billionaire, ran independently for the Presidency. Although he received no electoral votes, he did receive more than 19 million popular votes, the largest percentage for a "third party" candidate since Teddy Roosevelt ran as the Bull Moose candidate in 1912. The movement spawned by his candidacy has developed into a "Reform" Party, but has no clear vision other than to "throw the rascals out."

5 This contested election was not decided until January 2001 by the Supreme Court. It now appears that Gore would have actually won the popular vote and the electoral vote, had all of Florida's ballots been recounted. This was done by an independent media consortium after President Bush's inauguration.
